

Gaming monitors as reliable as your desktop monitor?

You never expect your desktop monitor to fail, and the same should be true of your gaming monitor. This was the thinking behind our completely new family of 15-, 17-, and 19-inch CRT open-frame gaming monitors.

With main electronics measuring only 20x25cm, tough epoxy-laminate PCB material and sturdy metalwork, the new computer-grade digital monitors are packed with features, including, multilingual remote OSD, field-replaceable electronics, worldwide power and agency approvals – all with new competitive pricing. The new monitors are a direct result of feedback from game manufacturers like you.

For over 10 years, Elo has been the world's largest producer of touchmonitors selling into a variety of demanding markets. And only Elo's iTouch touch-on-tube technology delivers picture quality that's significantly better – perfect, in fact. That is one reason why iTouch has been selected by top manufacturers for their newest games.

Proven designs from desktop monitors, ruggedised for gaming, and built in a factory along with some of the best-known desktop brands in the world. That's the formula for reliability. By the way, these monitors are so good, we offer them even without touch.
